

FCC Commissioners
The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I am writing to voice my concerns about the FCC's proposal to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight.

Although, I do not believe cell phone usage will interfere with navigational equipment, I do believe it will be a serious safety hazard for passengers. Flight attendants have enough on their hands in the event of an emergency to get peoples attention and to keep passengers calm and responsive to them. Add cell phone conversations into the fray and you are increasing the risk of the safety of all on board a plane.

Furthermore, flying has already become an unenjoyable experience. Adding a plane full of "can you hear me now" loud talking individuals on the plane, ringing cell phones, waking up sleeping passengers is only going to heighten the level of stress in a confined area. This is not a necessity.

Please leave the current rules in effect.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Madsen
